

FRIDAY NIGHTS EVENT

“THE RAT PACK IS BACK”

Frank Sinatra, Sammy Davis Jr., and Dean Martin were the definition of “cool” during the glory days of Las Vegas. Now you can experience the glitz and glamour that made Sin City famous in The Rat Pack is Back at the COPA Showroom in Tuscany Suites & Casino. Video screens on both sides of the stage show clips of Vegas in its heyday, putting you in the mood of when the Rat Pack ruled the Strip. From there the curtains open and you’re in for a show that’s received an award from the “Congress of the United States” and is the only Vegas based show that tours all over the world.

THE SHOW

You know you’re in for a whale of a show when the curtains are drawn to reveal the 12-piece Lou Bronson Orchestra playing some music to get your toes tapping before the performers make their way on stage. This Las Vegas production recreates the Rat Pack’s most famous musical numbers and keeps audiences tearing up from laughter at the whimsical onstage ad-libbing. Each tribute artist has nailed down their Rat Pack member’s singing, looks, and mannerisms. So when you hear classical songs like “Fly Me To The Moon,” “Luck Be A Lady,” and “Ain’t That A Kick in The Head,” you’ll have to do a double-take. And just like the original Rat Pack, anyone and everyone can show up during the show. Rat Pack “mascots” like Marilyn Monroe will occasionally stop by and serenade one lucky man with her rendition of “Happy Birthday” in the audience.

SHOW HIGHLIGHTS

The Rat Pack were the coolest cats in Sin City back in the day. Their catchy songs and playful banter made them one of the biggest draws of Vegas in their time. These performers know the legends they’re imitating inside and out during this 90-minute homage to yesteryear.
